To many people our paper money has looked the same for many years. However, there are many ways to collect currency. The first U.S. Currency was issued during the Civil War, and over the years there were many types issued in denominations from 1 cent notes to $10,000 notes. Shown below are just a few of the many ways a person could collect currency.

A Foundation for Friendship

GUIDELINES

NATIONAL COIN WEEK • APRIL 15 - 21, 1984

The National Coin Week 1984 theme, "Numismatics: A Foundation For Friendship," encourages collectors to share the enjoyment and fun of their hobby with old friends and to make new friends through a mutual interest in numismatics. Sharing knowledge of the hobby with the non-collecting public can provide a basis for future friendships. One of the most exciting aspects of our hobby is the fellowship and camaraderie that it provides, and we urge you to share that with others during National Coin Week 1984. Use this time to sign up new members for your club and for the ANA.

The key to a successful National Coin Week is in reaching out to a general public that may know little about the numismatic hobby. This means publicity. A club committee might be formed to coordinate a National Coin Week observance with your town or city management. Ask your mayor, county official or even state governor to sign a proclamation declaring National Coin Week in your area. Contact local service clubs and schools asking if they would like to hear an interesting program about numismatics. Call upon area radio and television stations and regional newspapers, informing them of your upcoming displays, lectures and shows. Many radio stations have talk shows where listeners can call in with questions. Perhaps two or three club members could be on a show like this to answer questions and talk about numismatics in general. Visit your local museum, historical society, or bank and offer to place an exhibit that depicts the many aspects of numismatics. Set up a table or booth at a local shopping center where people can bring unknown pieces or ask questions.

The ANA will send an NCW PROMOTIONAL PACKET to any individual, club or organization requesting information about National Coin Week. Packets for individual members will contain two posters, five bumper bottles, ten NCW logos and one each of the Guidelines, Final Report form and a sample proclamation. Club packets will contain five posters, ten bumper bottles, twenty bumper logos and two each of the Guidelines, Final Report form and sample proclamation. ANA literature will be included in all packets. Requests for additional material may be made by writing to the NCW chairwoman. Extra bumper bottles may be ordered at a cost of 10¢ each; other additional material will be sent free of charge. All requests for National Coin Week materials should be addressed to National Coin Week 1984, P.O. Box 2366, Colorado Springs, CO 80901.

As individual, club or organization participants in National Coin Week, all participants are invited to share their ideas about National Coin Week by submitting a Final Report to the NCW chairwoman. If possible, include samples of activities and programs, photographs and descriptions of special activities such as shows, lectures and exhibits. Reports should be sent to Nancy W. Green, NCW Chairwoman, P.O. Box 2366, Colorado Springs, CO 80901.

Outstanding final reports will be selected for publication in THE NUMISMATIST so that others may share your ideas. Publicity, local involvement, sharing and reporting are paramount to the success of National Coin Week.

Certificates of Participation will be prepared and forwarded to you for those individuals and organizations designated by you as taking part actively during National Coin Week. Please include a list of participants with your Final Report.
